Annualised performance objective

Daily compounded GBP 3-Month LIBOR + 1% p.a. after taking into account charges

Outperform the money market with a dynamic risk allocation in the international fixed income and currency markets.

Amundi Funds Arbitrage VaR 2 (GBP) seeks to achieve annualised performance of 1% above daily compounded GBP 3-Month LIBOR (after taking into account charges) within the scope of a pre-determined risk allocation over a minimum investment horizon of one year.

1 A key element: Diversification

The investment philosophy applied in Amundi Funds Arbitrage VaR 2 (GBP) stems from a simple conclusion: sources of performance change over time and from one asset class to another, while financial markets do not adjust instantly to the information.

The philosophy is based on a strong principle: to create alpha, one has to work in a broad investment universe and on the interactions within and between markets.

The investment team therefore seeks to maximise diversification in Amundi Funds Arbitrage VaR 2 (GBP): diversification of the investment universe into all the OECD and non-OECD fixed income and OECD currency markets; diversification of strategies within and/or between asset classes; diversification of horizons, from the very long term to the very short term; diversification of approaches: fundamental, quantitative, chartist; diversification of instruments used: securities, options, futures, swaps, etc.

2 Multiple strategies

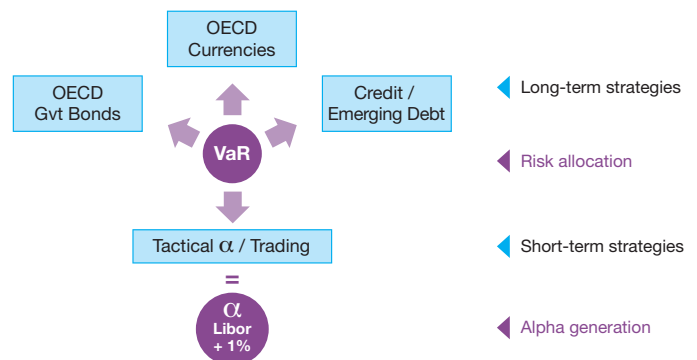

Depending on its long-term strategic views, the investment team sets up directional positions to determine the sub-fund's global exposure to the different asset classes.

The specialists of each asset class then set up relative value strategies within each class. These strategies use long and short positions (via derivatives) simultaneously to take advantage of a given market's behaviour in relation to another's, independently from general market trends.

In addition, tactical positions and trading steered by specialists in derivatives (interest rates, currencies, volatility, etc.) are used to tap short-term market inefficiencies.

In sum, the performance of Amundi Funds Arbitrage VaR 2 (GBP) is attributable to relative changes between markets as well as to the respective trend of each market.

3 Management by risk allocation

The investment team allocates risk evenly between the different sources of performance and favours positions that traditionally have low correlation. The lower the correlation, the easier it is to integrate extra sources of value added without increasing the portfolio's overall risk excessively. The portfolio's composition is determined by the risk allocation and not the asset allocation. The team benefits from a significant risk allocation: ex-ante VaR* of 95% comprised between 0 and 2.5% p.a. This makes it possible to implement a great number of strong plays with as little correlation as possible.

* Information on VaR can be found in the Fund's simplified prospectus available from Amundi.

4 Specialists in absolute return

The sub-fund's management is entrusted to the London-based investment team. With over 20 specialists in the different asset classes, the team is one of the European leaders in absolute return.

The management process of Amundi Funds Arbitrage VaR 2 (GBP) is based on the know-how and extensive expertise acquired by Amundi in managing major traditional asset classes. Its originality lies in its capacity to combine them simultaneously to achieve optimum performance.
